The Klondike excitement is shrink-

ng. It was expected that by this time there would be a tremendous tide of travel to the new land of gold. But the Pacific coast cities are disappointed. Steamers are being taken off instead of being put on Alaskan lines. Spring has come, but the great spring flood of emigration to the Yukon has not materialized. It would be easy to multiply reasons, now that the fact shows itself, says a Chicago authority. But one reason is the disappointing reports from those who have dared the arctic cold to tear nuggets from the frozen soil. The $40,000,000 that was to come from the Klondike last winter has shrunk to $5,000,000. The auriferous area so far discovered is limited, and has already been taken up. There is despised mule. He is rapidly becoming nothing but the money-getting possibilities to attract to the new El Dorado, and when those possibilities dwindle will dwindle also.

The Kansas papers have pretty nearly exhausted their quips and jokes about what would be done if a Spanish fleet of gunboats should sail into Kansas waters, and now it only remains to recount the historical fact that a gunboat once did sail upon Kansas waters, and that for a considerable distance, says the Kansas City Journal. From 1856 to 1860 it was not at all unusual for small steamers to pass up the Kanried two six-pound cannon on her prow against the attacks of marauders or of feather at a critical moment. either of the armed forces which were striving for territorial mastery." So there is your gunboat.

any one time was placed with a vinegar States government. It called for 21,000 gallons, or near ten car loads, of vinegar, all for the use of the United States army. The order was sent to Capt. Duval, of the subsistence department, on bids that he received recently. The order was given to St. Louis over bigders in all the eastern cities. The vinegar will be sent to the army in all parts of the United States. Five car loads will be sent to Chickamauga. The greater part of the remainder will go to Mobile and Tampa. Small consignments will be sent to each of the various posts in the United States.

"A war would kill the beach business," declared a pessimistic Old Orchard man to a Portland (Me.) reporter. "It wouldn't be because there would be | any real danger, for I don't believe Spain has got any powder to waste on seaside resorts, but it would keep people away from the beaches just the same. In the first place, war would make everything so uncertain that business men could not get away. Then most of the people who come to Old Orchard or Bar Harbor live inland and they won't take any chances of coming to the seacoast. If there is war you won't see the people coming from St. Louis, Chicago and such places to any Maine beaches."

These are palmy days for the oncethe fanciest article on the market. Under the stimulus of immediate need for army use, prices of mules in Kansas the hegira to the far northern shores City and St. Louis have already been crowded up fully 25 per cent., and another advance is said to be planned. Two hundred mules were sold in Kansas City the other day for $83.40 a head, and 800 in St. Louis for $93; the cost to the dealers is said to have been less than $50. It is said that the government requires immediately 1,800 more mules, and for these the "mule trust" proposes to exact a still stiffer price.

Soldiers of To-Day.

It is like the old war times, only different. "Did the companies remind you of 1861?" asked a gentleman of another who watched the "boys" marching into camp. "Very little, sir; very little." "In what respect do they differ?" "In many. This respect being the most prominent: These are soldlers, well drilled and uniformed, with officers who understand their duties. Our companies in 1861 straggled into camp out of step, staring to the right and left, not looking to the front, like soldiers; some in long coats, some in short; some in no coats, with all styles of headgear, arms swinging and tongues chattering. I wish you could see one of those straight ahead, keeping perfect step, saying nothing, tidily uniformed. But what soldiers those boys who went into camp in the '60's developed into! These boys have the drill to begin with; they will have the same kind of a record to end with that the boys of old had."

So brightly blazes martial ardor at Thorndike, Me., that the local correspondent of the Belfast Age is unable to hold to his theme of spring, but breaks forth: "We not only hear the sweet warbling of birds to remind us that spring has come, but that terrible scream of the American eagle, warning us that an insolent foe has not only dared to pollute the fair valley of freedom with his vile and barbarous tread. beneath whose poisonous footsteps the young plants of liberty are sure to wither and die, but has drawn largely from Uncle Sam's stores, polluted his blood. These Spanish savages, reptiles in the path of progressive democracy, must be whipped into civilization;

The public ought not to be deceived in these times by the dissemination of false reports as to our ships of war, says the New York Times. The naval officials do not authorize any reports at all, and such as are printed are the work of newspapers, some of which do not take the trouble to make sure of the facts. One of the stories which persistently appears just now is that the cruiser Atlanta is at the Brooklyn navy yard being remodeled. The plain truth is that the Atlanta is a dismantled, pathetout and her guns are ashore. She could into Kansas City from western Kansas, not go into active service in six months, has lost lots of sheep. In response to a godspeed given to Robert Collyer, of New York, on the eve of his departure for Italy, that venerable minister said he hoped he might live to come back. "I believe I shall. The demand for feathers for millinery purposes has developed the skill of New York artisans to such an extent, according to the Mail and Express, that they are able to imitate many expensive and rare kinds of plumage with the cheapest and commonest kinds of feathers. The tools employed are known as curling scissors, alkali, feather-workers' paste and various dyes. The most ingenious application of these counterfeits was the making of an artificial bird upon a frame which was lifelike in its naturalness and yet which was manufactured of feathers taken from ordinary barnyard fowls.

How far from the rest some parts of the United States are was illustrated pointedly a fortnight ago when Capt. Milan, keeper of the Mount Desert Rock light, off the Maine coast, paid his first visit of the winter to the mainland and there first learned of the destruction of the Maine. He bought all the papers he could find giving an account unusually large financial success. of the catastrophe to take to the small community of his home.

Invention and Labor.

Strange as it may see, says a writer in Gunton's Magazine, the belief that invention tends to displace labor and lessen the field of employment is still very common. Probably this is because most people see only the immediate effact of a given innovation, and do not take time or trouble to trace out the larger results. They reason chiefly from local and individual experience and ignore or overlook the general social facts. Nobody denies the fact of temporary displacement of labor by improved machinery, and the hardship, often severe prolonged, that attends the process. This is a problem by itself, requiring special study and attention in '61 companies that you might compare order that in the constant transition it with these boys-erect, looking from poorer to better industrial methods labor may be reabsorbed without a adequate insurance provision made for displaced laborers during such periods. But the remedy for this evil certainly is and new methods of production. That Hocker Stanford, Ky would indeed limit the future opportunity of labor, because increase of employment depends primarily upon creation of new industries and such improved efficiency of old industries as will make possible cheaper production, and hence larger sales.

The Philadelphia Record tells of a solemn-looking man who went to a clothing store and asked to see some clothing. A salesman took him in hand, and after a little time a selection was made. After trying on the garment the customer said: "Just lay these clothes aside; some one will be in to pay for flag and unwonth spilled American them in a few minutes. I'm a son of God, and never did pay for anything." The surprised salesman did as he was bid, and the stranger wentout. A group they have no right to the blessings of of salesmen watched him as he departbarbarism, at least on this side of the ed, and noticed that he stood on the pavement near the door, with his eyes closed and lips moving as if in silent prayer. After 20 minutes had elapsed he returned to the store and said: "Did anyone pay for those clothes?" On receiving a negative answer he continued, without the least trace of disappointment in his voice and manner: "Well, then, I guess I shan't take them," and departed. Now the witnesses of the scene are wondering whether the man is a lunatic or merely a firm believer in the efficacy of prayer.

An exchange reports that a baggageic, helpless hulk. Her smokestacks are man on the Santa Fe railroad, who runs the night it has been his habit to take naps between stations, but with the advent of the ducks his dozing stopped. The almost constant quacking of the ducks would not permit of sleep, and for many nights he lay awake and moaned over his hard luck. One night a bright idea came to him, and it made him smile. The next night he had two who knew her in the early days of his coops of unusually vociferous ducks. As soon as he got time, he wrenched a great Benjamin), told me her niece was slat from one of the coops, pulled out a with her when the last moments of the duck, and slipped a rubber band over its bill. The duck tried to quack, but the her some medicine and she opened her rubber band would not permit it to by one the ducks were thus muzzled.

All sorts of devices intended to miti gate the unpleasantness of war are in order. There is some talk among naval officers in New York of establishing a home hotel solely as a dwelling place for the "women left behind." The wives of many officers not only fee broken-hearted, but find themselves practically homeless, and a headquarters of some sort wouldn't be a bad idea. As it is they have to seek news from the fleets through the regulation channels, and the suffering that comes entirely through suspense is telling on some of them. A home with a ticker and a telephone would certainly be a great boon to the wives of the heroes who are at present doing all the fighting.

Recently, a hand-organ man on Broadway, New York, began to grind out "America." A few men stopped to listen, and began to sing, and in five minutes fully 400 men stood around the organ man, singing the air. It was an unusual scene; but the poor organgrinder complained that it was not an

Some Plain Facts.

2 dam

Grave errors, injustice, wrongs of greater or less degree, arise from lack of knowledge of the truth, and more frequently from deception.

The most infamous case on record of deception and injustice is the attempt to demonetize silver as a money of final redemption in the United

There is no learned judge, skilled lawyer, or court of justice that is capable of reconciling the effort with the constitutional laws that govern the issue of money in this country.

The people have been deceived, officials in power, chosen to administer justice under the laws, have ignored their sworn duty, and given aid to the scheme that has paralyzed industry, reduced property values one-half, and beggared millions.

There is no authority of law, either gold alone is made the only money with which to discharge debts, either public or private. The effort to make it so is unconstitutional and a national calamity.

Plain and ample information, facts, and truth, concerning this almost successful scheme to corner the wealth of the people, is now being printed EAGLE : BIRD in the Cincinnati Enquirer, a newspaper which the combined power of money has failed to muzzle or buy.

Fortunes of War.

There is a big difference between club life and that of the private in the army, as some of "Teddy's Terrors" have already learned. A private letter received at Washington tells how distinctions were leveled in the contingent of steeple-chasers, football players, cowboys, oarsmen, policemen and old soldiers that left there one day to join the rest of Col. Leonard Wood's regiment of mounted riflemen, better known as "Roosevelt's Terrors," in Texas. A well-known New York clubman who had enlisted in the regiment engaged a section of the sleeper attached to the train. He showed his Pullman ticket to the porter, and was escorted to the place assigned him. Just as he deposited his baggage Sergt. Thaddeus Higgins, an old cavalryman of the regular service, who had charge of the party, tapped him on the shoulder. "Take these things back there," he said, jerking his thumb in the direction of the ordinary day coaches provided by the government for the troop. ers. The clubman looked surprised. It was his first experience in military discipline. "There's where you belong," added Sergt. Higgins, with the thumb still pointed to the rear. The clubman was made of good stuff. He saluted, picked up his things and went back to the day coaches. He did not sleep at full length until the train arrived at San Antonio.

A handsomely dressed woman of decidedly foreign appearance entered a prominent dry goods store, reports the Philadelphia Times, and, approaching a saleswoman, said: "I want to buy a Spanish flag." The clerk, much surprised, replied that they had none of the Spanish emblems in stock, whereupon her customer asked for the colors to make one. "I hate the American flag," she exclaimed, wrathfully, "and if I can't buy my country's banner in your miserable stores I will make one with my own hands and flaunt it in the faces of the whole United Sates." The floorwalker, passing, heard the remark, and, with a dignified bow to his wouldbe patron, said: "Madam, the open door awaits your hasty exit. If you will be so kind as to send your husband or brother to repeat your words to me, I shall consider it a very great personal favor. I bid you good-day."

It is reported that six special trains of freight cars passed through Washington the other day from Baltimore. running as sections of fast passenger trains loaded with provisions for the army at Tampa. One of these trains was made up of 24 cars of bread. There were 40 carloads of flour, 1.000,000 pounds being sent in double sacks of 100 pounds each. Nine care were filled with sugar-about 900 barrels, weigning 288,000 pounds. Four cars were loaded with 96,000 pounds of rice. There were two carloads of beans and nine cars filled with 256,000 cans of tomatoes. Forty-eight cars were filled with hard tack, 12 cars with coffee, three with candles, one with salt, five with bacon, and three or four cars were filled with miscellaneous provisions - vinegar, pepper, baking powder, soap and other

The war has called out the best efforts of loyal women to provide for the physical comfort of their male relatives or friends who have gone to the front, and the different schemes for ameliorating the hardships of camp life or the dangers of actual fighting are as multitudinous as feminine ingenuity is widespread and active. The palm, however, for novelty must be awarded to the loyal Iowa women who are going to help defeat Spain by furnishing ear muffs for our gallant tars. The deafening roar of heavy ordnance is not without its dangers to the permanent hearing of those in close gunservice, and there are occasions when you made it talk! looks may be safely sacrificed to utility. A tiger for the ear muffs.

Squire Newkirk was sowing oats on his Rice county farm the other day, says an Ohio exchange, when a young couple of the neighborhood drove up in a buggy and asked to be married. The old squire dropped the lines, turned around in his seat on the drill and made the couple one while they were still sitting in the buggy, after which the bridegroom promised to bring him a likely young shoat for his fee, kissed his bride and drove merrily away.

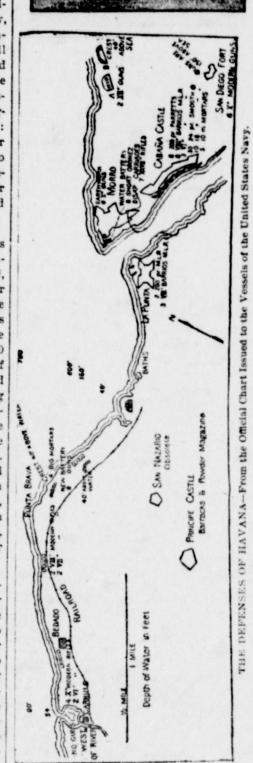

A little Montgomery (N. Y.) miss wanted some ice cream the other evening. She wouldn't accept her mother's refusal, and as the last resort she sent they satisfied with it? her to her father. The question was put to bim, who answered: "Not much." She went back to her mother and told her that her papa said "she could have a little."

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF STANFORD, KY.

Capital Stock $100,000. Surplus, $15.750

Attention of the public is called to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford. Under the provisions of the National Bank Act depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' liability for an amount equal in the stock so that depositors of this institution are secured by a fund of $200,000. Five sworm statements of the condition of the Bank are made each year to the United States Government and its assets are examined at stated times by government agents, thus securing additional and periect safety to depositors.

This institution originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1855, then reorganized as the National Bank of Stanford in 1865 and again reorganized as the First National Bank of Stanford in 1882, has had practically an uninterrupted existence for 35 years. It is better supplied now wittacilities for transacting business promptly and liberally than ever before in its long and honorable career. Accounts of individuals, fiduciaries, firms and individuals solicited.
